ASSESSOR MAKES FINAL REPORT

Assessment in Jackson Township is $7,790,034 Minus Banks and Other Corporations.

1,275 POLLS ARE LISTED

Railroads, Banks and Telephone Companies to Be Assessed By State Tax Commissioners.

E. L. Himebaugh, Jackson township assessor, has just completed his final report on personal and real estate property assessed in Jackson township and the City of Seymour which minus the railroad corporations, telephone companies and banks, totals $7,790,034. Of this amount the assessment in Seymour is $5,413,009, while the remainder, $2,377,025, is in the township outside the corporate limits. The figures exclusive of the railroad companies, banks and telephone companies show an increase over last year's total report of $2,661,994 and it is thought that when the assessment which will be made by the state board of tax commissioners for the corporations is completed the addition in the city will surpass $3,000,000.

The number of polls in Jackson township totals 1,275. 1,006 of the number were taken in Seymour while the number of polls in the township is 269.

Mr. Himebaugh stated this morning that he had been promised by the state board of taxation that the banks, telephone companies and railroad corporations would all have their assessments raised in accordance with the large increase in the valuation of real estate and personal property.

It is expected that a report on the valuations of the corporations assessed by the state board of tax commissioners will be received within a few days. It is pointed out that it is necessary for the heads of the corporations to furnish the required information to the commissioners at Indianapolis which has been done. Considering the large increase in Seymour and Jackson township it is the opinion that the increase over last year's assessment in the county will amount to several million dollars.

Drake was recently tried in Marion county for complicity in the alleged arson case, but was acquitted.

The day's work in circuit court was devoted to probate business. A number of reports of guardians and administrators were received. Considerable business in connection with the settlement of estates was transacted.

BIG PART OF M. E. QUOTA IS PLEDGED

Approximately $2,225,000 for Centenary Fund Reported to Conference Headquarters Here.

ALLOTMENT WAS $3,102,253

L. C. Griffiths is Chairman of Organization That Made Drive in 1,000 Churches Sunday.

As the result of the three-hour campaign Sunday afternoon for "A Million Dollars an Hour," the Indiana Methodist Episcopal Conference will oversubscribe its quota of $3,102,253 for the Centenary Fund of $105,000,000 in the United States, according to incomplete reports received at the conference headquarters in this city. The Connersville district, Rev. J. M. Walker, superintendent, was the first district to report its quota complete. The allotment for that district was $385,510 and the subscriptions amounted to $386,000. North Vernon was the first church in the conference to report to the headquarters after 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The drive was conducted in about one thousand churches in the Indiana Conference and it is estimated that approximately ten thousand workers were engaged in the canvass. The campaign was conducted in accordance with the plans which were originally made and carried the workers to nearly every Methodist home in the conference. The drive originally was to have been made on Sunday afternoon.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE COMES NEXT

C. H. Wiethoff, County Chairman, Has Made Preparations for The Canvass Next Sunday.

COUNTY'S QUOTA IS $3,708

Subscriptions May Be Made in Four Equal Monthly Installments—Sale of Doughnuts.

C. H. Wiethoff, chairman of the organization that will have charge of the Salvation Army drive in this county for $3,708, has completed arrangements for the canvass which will be made next Sunday. The War savings organization will be asked to co-operate in the drive. Speakers will be sent into each school district in the county next Friday night to explain the purposes of the drive. R. A. Greeman and the Rev. J. H. More are in charge of the speakers' bureau.

It is not expected that any difficulty will be experienced in raising the county's quota which is based on fifteen cents per capita. The Salvation Army is one of the most popular war agencies in active service and the soldiers who have returned are strongly indorsing the movement. Some of the soldiers have volunteered their services in making the campaign a success.

The canvass will be made next Sunday afternoon by the War savings society solicitors. The great majority of the officers and workers have consented to make this campaign. It is expected that most of the contributions will be paid in cash at the time the subscription is made. However, if any one desires more time to pay their pledges they pay one fourth of the amount on the first day of June and the balance in equal installments on the first day of each month for three succeeding months. Mr. Wiethoff announces that Liberty bonds will also be accepted in place of cash. A local man this morning volunteered to give $100 to the fund. He said he thought the Salvation Army is doing a great work not only among the soldiers but in civilian life and believed that it ought to be liberally supported.

Mrs. E. P. Elsner has been appointed chairman of the committee which will conduct a doughnut sale on next Saturday. The doughnuts will be furnished by the members of the county food clubs and the proceeds will be placed in the Salvation Army fund and will become a part of the county's quota.

CONGRESS READY FOR BUSY SESSION

Republican Slate of Officers Chosen at Organization Sessions of Both Houses.

MESSAGE SENT TO WILSON

Representative Dallinger Introduces Resolution Against Seating Victor Berger.

Washington, May 19—Congress met, organized and prepared for one of the busiest sessions in its history today. The senate elected Senator Cummins, Iowa, president protem and the entire republican slate and then adjourned tomorrow.

The house elected Representative Frederick H. Gillett, Massachusetts, speaker, after a vote along party lines on Gillett and former speaker, Champ Clark. While the senate business was perfunctory the usual scenes of good fellowship prevailed in the lower branch. After the vote on speaker, Clark and Gillett marched arm in arm down the aisle to the rostrum amid loud applause. Clark then introduced his successor.

The sole chill in the general atmosphere about the house proceedings was in the challenge brought by Representative Dallinger, Massachusetts, against seating Victory L. Berger, socialist congressman from Wisconsin.

Resolutions were adopted by both house and senate to inform President Wilson that congress was ready for business. This will be communicated to the President tonight and his message will be delivered to both branches of the congress tomorrow. The house adjourned at 2:18 out of respect to deceased members.

The organization was effected at a recent meeting of the editors who attended a conference of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ of America. Dr. Wareing was asked to preside at the editors' banquet and he delivered an address in which he proposed such an organization. The plan was very favorably received by the editors and the organization was effected without further delay.

SEARCH IS MADE FOR LOST SEAPLANE

Commander Towers and NC-3 Missing in Flight to Ponta Del Grada.

DESTROYERS AID IN SEARCH

Temporary Abandonment of Trans-Atlantic Flight—Ships Comb the Sea.

By United Press
Washington, May 19—The missing American seaplane NC-3 was sighted at 12:10 p. m. Washington time the navy department was advised today. The NC-3 was proceeding "under her own power." The cable did not state whether the missing seaplane was in the air or on the water. Commander Towers's plane was seven miles from Ponta Del Grada when sighted and reported. This message was received by the navy department.

"NC-3 sighted 12:10 p. m., Washington time, seven miles from Ponta Del Grada under her own power."

Unfavorable weather will probably prevent the NC-4 continuing its voyage today, the navy was advised in this message.

"NC-4 will leave for Ponta Del Grada as soon as weather is suitable. At present heavy squalls and rain preventing. Doubt if NC-4 can start today."

Washington, May 19.—The NC-4 has been ordered to join the search for Commander Towers and the lost NC-3 the navy department was officially advised today. All destroyers available west of Ponta Del Grada also have been ordered to join in the organized search. The orders issued mean abandonment at least temporarily of the trans-Atlantic flight, it was stated here.

Prospects of clearing weather, however, held out hope for Commander Towers and his crew. All means at the navy's command were being employed in the search for the missing NC-3. Battleships and destroyers continued their combing of the vicinity in which the NC-3 was last reported. It is felt here that if she was forced down she has probably been picked up by now by some vessels.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Towers, after hours of anxious waiting here, pluckily declared she had not given up hope. She said: "Of course, I am dreadfully worried. But I know he's all right. He told me he'd 'make it' and that's all there is to it. He's had some trouble of some kind but he will overcome that. He'll be found and right where he belongs—in command of his ship."

Much interest was manifested in Washington in the flight of Harry Hawker, Australian. The general attitude here was to wish luck to the man who had risked everything in one fast flight to England. Navy men recalled previous statements that the American flight was not a race for prize money but a scientific venture.

WHEREABOUTS OF AVIATOR HAWKER ARE UNKNOWN

British Air Ministry Receives No Information Relative to Progress of Flight.

By United Press
London, May 19—Late this afternoon the British air ministry had received no news of the whereabouts of Aviator Hawker, who jumped off from Newfoundland late yesterday in a Sopwith airplane. Many rumors concerning Hawker's flight were circulated here.

St. Johns, May 19—The Martinsyde plane which crashed in an effort to get away on the trans-Atlantic flight on the heels of the Sopwith yesterday, is practically a wreck. Examination of the damage today showed that the machine is out of the running for the trans-Atlantic prize. The two men handling the machine were slightly injured when it took a nose dive after jumping ten feet in an effort to stop.

Harry Hawker, the Australian pilot, and his navigator, shot away into the east on their trans-Atlantic attempt at 1:51 p. m. Sunday.

Compared with their published statements of one year ago, all the banks of Seymour show a gain in assets. The total increase is over $330,000. This indicates a very healthy business condition when it is recalled that hundreds of thousands of dollars have been sent out of the county during the year to purchase government bonds, and to make contributions to funds of various kinds of war purposes.

The statement of the First National Bank which was published Saturday in The Republican shows a steady growth in the assets of this bank. The deposits in the bank now exceed one million dollars and the total assets compared with the statement of our year ago show a gain of over two hundred thousand dollars. This is the oldest bank in the county and is recognized as one of the substantial financial institutions of southern Indiana.

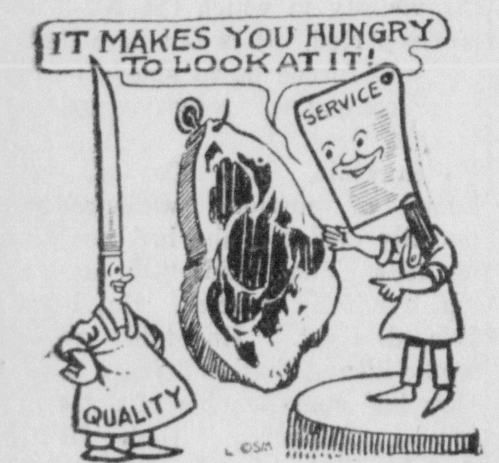

The Jackson County Loan and Trust Co. statement which was published Saturday in The Republican shows the largest assets in the history of the institution, almost a million dollars. This is the youngest of the Seymour banking institutions but its published statements show a rapid and steady growth in its banking business.

WINS FAME AND WAR DECORATION

Anzac Colonel Wounded and Ordered Home Enlists and Fights Again.

IS RECOGNIZED IN FRANCE

General Sends for Him and Gives Him Commission — Decorated With Order of St. Michael and St. George.

London.—The story of a colonel of Australian infantry who was wounded in the Gallipoli campaign and sent back to Australia, but who concealed his rank and re-enlisted as a private to serve with the Australians in France, has added to the esteem in which Australians are held in London. Col. Charles Melville Mac Naghten, the hero of the story, is hailed as a man of gallantry and grit.

He was the son of Sir Melville Mac Naghten, chief of the criminal investigation department of Scotland yard, says the Daily Mail, and was practicing law in Australia when the war began. He was the major in command of the First Brigade which landed at Anzac Cove on Gallipoli peninsula. Within two days he was wounded three times. After recovery in England he returned to Gallipoli and led his battalion in their immortal charge at Lone Pine.

Ordered Back to Australia. After the evacuation of Gallipoli he served for a time in Egypt and was sent from there to England, suffering from wounds and fever. Surgeons refused him permission to return to active service, and he was sent to Australia as second in command of an Australian training camp.

One day he slipped away from the camp and joined a replacement battalion in Queensland under the name of Charles Melville, and soon afterward was back in England training on Salisbury plain as Private Melville. He was quickly promoted to be corporal, and one day was asked by his commanding officer:

"Corporal, do you think you could drill this company?"

Having commanded a brigade, the corporal put the company through its paces like the veteran he was.

Recognized by Officers. Back in France again, he was recognized by officers who had known him in Gallipoli as the daring and brilliant soldier they had called "Fighting Mac." General Birdwood, with whom he had served at Lone Pine, sent for him and gave him a commission. Not long afterward Colonel Mac Naghten was again sent as an invalid to England, where he was summoned to Buckingham palace to receive from the king a decoration as a companion of the order of St. Michael and St. George, which had been conferred upon him several years before for his gallantry at Gallipoli.

While serving in the ranks in France as "Corporal Melville" he had been personally congratulated by the commanding general for valor at Messines ridge.

Mac Naghten's fighting days are now over and he is compelled to recognize this fact, for, as one of his men put it, "he is riddled like a colander and it is only his fighting spirit which keeps him alive."

THIS WEEK, NERVOUS MOTHER

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which added to my weak condition kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I took it for a week and felt a little better. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness."—Mrs. J. WORTHLINE, 2842 North Taylor St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The majority of mothers nowadays overdo their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down, nervous condition with headaches, back-ache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. It is at such periods in life that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will restore a normal healthy condition, as it did to Mrs. Worthline.

noon, but was postponed on account of the conflict in dates with the Victory Liberty loan drive. However, many of the churches secured some large pledges several weeks ago and quite a number of the church committees became interested in the work and decided to complete their drives before the campaign formally opened. Great quantities of literature and instructions pertaining to the drive have been sent from the local offices during the last month or so. A daily bulletin is being issued this week and distributed to the various church organization that the membership may be fully informed as to the progress that is made from day to day.

Reports which have come here indicate that the centenary campaign in the nation is more than half completed. Dr. E. C. Wareing, editor of the Western Christian Advocate, a Methodist publication issued at Cincinnati, was here today, and stated that the report compiled for the meeting of the board of bishop to May 15, showed that $50,000,000 had been pledged. The largest quota for any area was that in the Cincinnati area in which the Indiana conference is located. This area has an allotment of $15,000,000 and at that time $6,000,000 had been subscribed. The Chicago area with a quota of $13,000,000 had subscribed $5,194,090. The Buffalo area is the first to over-subscribe its quota of $7,470,000. It is the confident belief of the leaders of the centenary movement that the entire amount will be pledged within the next week or ten days.

The reports from the Indiana conference have been received at the local headquarters throughout the day by Fred Bacon, conference director. Claude Carter, is district financial chairman, and reports that the churches in the Seymour district are making a splendid showing. Franklin, North Vernon and Seymour have completed their quotas and many other of the larger churches will be "over the top" before the middle of the week. It is the belief of the local workers that some of the congregations have already completed their quotas but have failed to make their reports promptly.

The quotas for the various district follow:
Bloomington$ 356,000
Connersville 385,510
Evansville 486,075
Greensburg 274,305
Indianapolis 652,170
New Albany 296,705

SEYMOUR M. E. CHURCH OVERSUBSCRIBES QUOTA

The Rev. Charles W. Whitman Announces Pledges to the Amount of $19,212.50.

The First M. E. church in this city oversubscribed its quota for the centenary fund, the Rev. Charles W. Whitman pastor, Sunday announcing pledges to the amount of $19,212.50. The quota was $17,500. A blackboard was used at the Sunday morning service to show how the city was divided for the purposes of the canvass and the diagram also showed the amount of subscriptions in each district. At the morning service the pastor christened nine infants and received nine people into full membership of the church. The congregation is much pleased with the successful outcome of the centenary drive here and the services Sunday at which this feature was emphasized were well attended.

Allies' Rifle Strength Greatest When Needed

Washington.—Figures showing the rifle strength of the allied and enemy force on the western front during the last eight months of the war were received by the war department. They show that up to July 1 the allies were outnumbered from 200,000 to 300,000, but that they reached their peak on September 1, when they had 1,682,000 opposed to the Germans' 1,339,000.

Rifle strength is the number of "men in the trenches ready to go over the top with the bayonet." The rifle strength of an American division of 27,000 combat troops is 12,250. This shows that the actual armies on the western front totaled more than twice as many as the rifle strength figures.

During the hard fighting from September 1, the Germans' losses were appalling, the figures showing a drop in their strength from 1,339,000 to 866,000 on November 1. During the same period the strength of the allied forces dropped only from 1,682,000 to 1,485,000.

MINES ENDANGER OCEAN VESSELS

High Explosives Still Float in Lanes of Commerce.

NAVIES TO SWEEP THE SEAS

Known Fields Will Be Cleared and Derelicts Will Be Picked Up—Danger May Extend for Years, and Mines, Freed From Moorings, May Be Swept Miles by Ocean Currents—Many Ships Sunk.

Untold thousands of unexploded mines, planted in navigable waters during the four years of war, still linger in the lanes of commerce like seeds of death, a constant menace to the toilers of the deep. Weeks back the sting of the U-boat was drawn. The signing of the armistice halted further ravaging of the submarine, and shipping sailed forth no longer in dread of the torpedo or the guns of the undersea craft. Nevertheless ships are endangered by other marine agencies of death, and the mariner cannot be sure that these hazards won't lie in his path for months to come and do him harm when and where least expected.

Already the navies of the allied nations have undertaken the hazardous work of clearing the recognized mine fields in European waters, and by the use of wire drags propose to remove every mine that still is held in position by its moorings. The chief danger to the mine sweepers and to commerce in general lies, however, in the derelict mine, which has been washed from its original position and is likely to be found in the North sea, in the Gulf stream, on the shores of the United States or in any other location to which the current, tide or winds may drive the mine with its charge of T. N. T., which is notably inert to the action of water and will retain its destructive potentialities until the charge is exploded.

Early in December the British warship Cassandra struck a mine in the Baltic and went down with the loss of 11 men. In January a British freighter foundered off Middlesbrough after hitting a mine and her crew was lost. A few days later the French ship Chaonia stumbled upon a mine in the Straits of Messina and went to the bottom in four minutes. Four hundred and sixty persons on board were lost. The British sloop Penarth was sunk by a mine 23 miles from the mouth of the Tyne. Scarcely a day passes, in fact, that some British, Norwegian, Swedish or other craft is not sunk or crippled by a mine in the North sea. Navigation has become so hazardous that many craft proceed only by day, thus lessening the danger of coming into contact with the dreaded derelicts.

Official figures issued by the Dutch and Danish authorities give some idea of the number of mines that have been torn from their moorings during the recent war. At the close of the first two years of war more than 500 mines had been beached along the north coast of Jutland. By March 1, 1916, 918 mines had been washed upon the shores of Holland. From 1914 to 1918, the Dutch picked up along the short seacoast of the Netherlands no fewer than 5,050 contact mines.

The belligerents were not the only European nations which employed mines. The Dutch, the Danes, the Norwegians and the Swedes all planted defensive mine fields, and upon numerous occasions these weapons got adrift and added to the perils of shipping.

Sweeping the Seas for Mines. During the war mine sweepers were constantly at work. Great Britain had no fewer than 700 craft to do this work around the British isles alone. Each month the mine sweepers combed 400,000 square miles of the sea, and to accomplish this they steamed more than 1,250,000 miles. In 1917 they garnered 43,000 German mines. In 1918 up to October 1 they had harvested 14,000 mines. In this hazardous work more than 150 British sweepers were blown to atoms and their crews lost.

Now all the allies are preparing to sweep the planted areas in an effort to gather up every possible mine. In some sections the removal of mines has begun. In other areas the fields will not be touched until after the signing of peace terms. The task before the nations is to sweep the seas free of the vast army of submarine weapons, and do it, despite the hazards involved, with the least possible delay. But no matter how rapidly this work may be prosecuted there still remains the disquieting likelihood of a considerable percentage of these mines breaking loose or being carried, anchor and all, into areas remote from their original position.

How Long Must I Suffer From the Pangs of Rheumatism?

Is there no real relief in sight?

Doubtless like other sufferers, you have often asked yourself this question, which continues to remain unanswered.

Science has proven that your Rheumatism is caused by a germ in your blood, and the only way to reach it is by a remedy which eliminates and removes these little pain demons from your blood. This explains why liniments and lotions can do no permanent good, for they cannot possibly reach these germs which infest your blood by the millions.

S. S. S. has been successfully used for Rheumatism for more than fifty years. Try it to-day, and you will find yourself at last on the right track to get rid of your Rheumatism. You can get valuable advice about the treatment of your individual case by writing to the Chief Medical Adviser, Swift Specific Co., Dept. D, Atlanta, Ga.

Make This Test For Acid-Stomach

There are millions of people who suffer almost daily from the horrors of an acid-stomach—indigestion; sour, gassy, stomach; distressing heart-burn; sickening food-repeating; painful bloating and that miserable, puffed up, lumpy feeling after eating. Many of these people have tried treatment after treatment; medicine after medicine; others have gone to doctors and stomach specialists and some to hospitals but in spite of all of their efforts they have obtained no lasting relief or a permanent cure.

These symptoms simply mean acid-stomach. If allowed to run on, they are very likely to cause a lot of serious trouble. Dyspepsia, rheumatism, gout, lumbago, sciatica, splitting headache, dizzy spells, nervousness, sleeplessness, mental depression, melancholia, a feeling of listlessness and all-goneness—these are just a few of the disorders which can be traced to acid-stomach. As a matter of fact, acid-stomach is often the direct cause of those almost incurable conditions known as catarrh of the stomach, intestinal ulcer, and cancer of the stomach. The lives of those who suffer from these serious troubles are nothing short of daily agony. Surely, then, you must see how important it is to go at once to the seat of the trouble—acid-stomach. You know what acid-mouth does to the teeth—how it eats right through the hard enamel and causes them to decay. Think then of the havoc that must be caused by excess acid in the stomach!

Even if you are not suffering any immediate stomach pains, but are not feeling just as fit and fine as you should, you should by all means make this test: go to your drug store at once and get a big box of EATONIC. It is in the form of pleasant-tasting tablets—you eat them like a bit of candy. EATONIC is prepared for just one purpose—correcting acid-stomach by driving out the excess acid. EATONIC literally absorbs the excess acid. It brings instant relief from the pains of indigestion, heartburn, belching, sour, gassy stomach, bloating, etc. It makes the stomach pure, sweet, cool and comfortable, puts it in a normal, healthy condition, so that your food is properly digested. You need every bit of strength you can possibly get out of the food you eat—and EATONIC helps you get it.

Don't put this test off if you value your future good health and happiness. You run no chance at all because EATONIC is absolutely guaranteed to give you relief or your druggist will refund your money. The cost is a mere trifle.

MORE RED BLOOD AND STEADIER NERVES FOR RUN DOWN PEOPLE

The World Demands, Strong, Vigorous, Keen-Minded, Men and Women

It has been said of Americans that they work their habits overtime.

Many become nervous and inefficient by overwork. By worry, despondency, social affairs, robbing brain and body of needed rest; excessive use of tobacco, indulgence in strong alcoholic drink—excesses of every kind that burn up the vital powers so necessary in these trying times to make both men and women fit to be of help to themselves and others.

It is time to be temperate in all things. The man or woman with impaired nerves caused by impoverished blood lacks vigor, the ambition, the endurance and the keen mind of those who avoid excesses.

Timidity, despondency, fear, trembling hands, want of confidence and even cowardliness, are due in a large measure to abused nerves.

People with plenty of red blood corpuscles and strong, healthy nerves have no desire to shirk work and lean on others for guidance and support.

There is hardly a nerve-shattered man or woman (unless of an organic disease) in America today who cannot become alert and clear in mind; vigorous and energetic in body in a very few weeks and at trifling cost.

To become strong and ambitious, to feel that work is not drudgery; to have steady nerves, abundance of red blood and power of endurance; to be not only a man but as men now go, a superman, you must take seven tablets of Bio-feren every day for seven days—and take them faithfully.

Take two after each meal and one at bedtime and after seven days take one only after meal until the supply is exhausted.

Then if you feel that any claim-made in this special notice is untrue—if your nerves are not twice as steady as before; if you do not feel ambitious, more vigorous and keen-minded; the pharmacist who dispensed the tablets to you will gladly hand you back just what you paid for them.

Bio-feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, rundown, weak, anaemic men and women ever offered direct through druggists and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

NO PRECEDENT FOR TRIAL OF KAISER

However Former German Emperor is Not First Ruler "Above The Law to be Punished.

NAPOLEON BECAME OUTLAW

Louis XVI. and Charles I Lost Their Heads—Charles' Claim of Divine Right to Rule.

(By J. W. T. Mason, Written for the United Press)

New York, May 19—No precedent exists under international law for the trial of William Hohenzollern, ex-Emperor of Germany, by a court of the Allies, nevertheless this will not be the first case of a monarch, "above the law," brought to punishment by extra-legal means.

When Napoleon began to be deserted by his soldiers in 1814, and saw his hopes of final victory vanish, he entrusted Marshal Ney and others of his friends with the work of negotiating terms with the allied enemy powers. The allies insisted upon Napoleon's abdication on behalf of himself and his heirs as Emperor of France and King of Italy. Napoleon consented. The allies thereupon did not bring him to trial, but continued the negotiations. In the end, Napoleon was permitted to keep the title of "Emperor" with an allowance of $900,000 yearly. Chiefly through the influence of Czar Alexander, Elba was created a principality for him, and he was sent there ostensibly as its ruler, but in reality, a prisoner.

After Napoleon's escape from Elba and his defeat at Waterloo, he became, in effect, an outlaw. He fled to Paris from Waterloo and abdicated again. The Prussians were marching toward Paris, intent on making Napoleon a prisoner of war, and the French provisional government ordered him to leave the capitol. Napoleon was advised to try to escape to America. He got as far as Rochefort, on the French Coast, hoping to find an American sailing ship there. The British man-of-war Bellerophon, however, was in the harbor, and escape was impossible.

The French royalists were now pursuing Napoleon, and rather than fall into the hands of his own countrymen, Napoleon boarded the Bellerophon and surrendered unconditionally to the British. The Bellerophon took him to Plymouth. From there, he was sent to St. Helena, by order of the British government. He was stripped of his imperial dignities, as punishment for his escape from Elba, and thereafter was known not as the Emperor Napoleon, but as General Bonaparte.

Previous to this termination of the Corsican's public career, the French had used extra-legal authority for ridding themselves of the Bourbon monarchy. The National Convention of the French Revolution, on September 20th, 1792, decreed the establishment of a republic. Louis XVI, who lost his throne by this act, fell under suspicion of conspiring to restore the monarchy. A charge of treason was brought against him, and he was brought to trial before the convention, January 19th, 1793. A majority vote alone of the convention was declared necessary to convict. On January 20th, the convention voted 387 for conviction, and 338 for acquittal. There was no authority in French law for this procedure, but that fact didn't save Louis' head, and he was guillotined January 21st. The English had greater difficulties in evading the law before they succeeded in beheading the last of their own absolutists, Charles I. Charles had attempted to intimidate the House of Commons into doing his will by storming the halls, sacred to the elected representatives of the people. Nevertheless, when Cromwell's soldiers captured Charles and called upon the Commons to proceed against him, the sense of lawful procedure was too strong among a majority of the members for them to act in so unprecedented a case.

Thereupon, the Cromwell warriors under command of Colonel Pride, employed what was after called "Pride's purge." They forcibly expelled 143 members of the Commons who were favorable to Charles. Other members of the house prudently remained away, until there were only about 50 in attendance. This body was the famous "rump parliament." On January 1, 1649, it declared Charles guilty of treason. The House of Lords refused to agree and the Commons resolved that the right of legislation was a possession of the Commons alone. They also declared they could make laws without the King's consent.

Then the rump established a high court of justice, comprising some 150 members to try Charles. The monarch announced he was above the law, and asked for the authority of his judges. He was told he was being tried by the authority of the English people who had elected him. Charles retorted his title was hereditary, not elective, and had been so for a thousand years.

The eminent legal authorities of England supported the King's claim, but the soldiers of Cromwell had no interest in legal technicalities, though many of the judges refused to go on with the trial. At the final session only sixty-two were present. They unanimously declared Charles guilty. Jurists down to the present day have held the verdict illegal, but Charles was led to the block in Whitehall, January 30, 1649, and lost his head at a single blow of the executioner's axe.

The only effort that has been made in American history to remove the chief executive was strictly legal. A bill impeaching President Andrew Johnson was passed by the House of Representatives and was sent to the senate on March 4, 1868. The principal accusation was that Johnson had disobeyed the "tenure of office" act, which prohibited the removal from office, without the senate's consent, of any person whose appointment had to be confirmed by the senate. In reality, the impeachment followed a bitter quarrel between Johnson and congress because of Johnson's lenient reconstruction policy after the Civil War.

Johnson was brought to trial before the senate, as provided for in the constitution. It required a two-thirds majority to convict. The vote stood thirty-five for conviction to nineteen against, one less than the necessary two-thirds. Johnson was thus acquitted. Six years after his term as president expired, he was elected to the United States Senate from Tennessee, but died within a few weeks of this vindication.

8. In filing your suggestion write your name and street address on the slip of paper together with the name you suggest. Fold this sheet of paper and place it in a sealed envelope.

A Mother's Happiness Made Perfect

Of Utmost Importance That She Have Every Care.

The expectant mother's physical comfort should be her first thought, and all about her should see to it that her preparation for baby's coming be complete.

There is a most splendid remedy to prepare women for the greatest time in their lives, known as Mother's Friend. It is applied to the muscles of the abdomen, gently rubbed in, and at once penetrates to relieve strain on nerves, cords and ligaments. It makes the muscles so pliant that they expand easily when baby arrives; the hours at the time are fewer, and pain and danger at the crisis is naturally avoided.

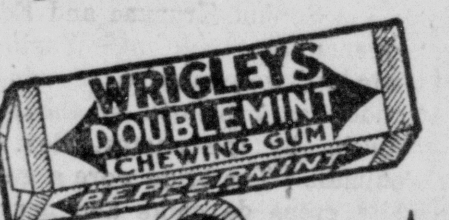

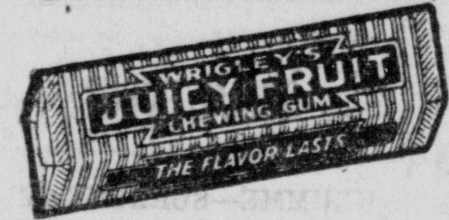

Mother's Friend enables the mother to preserve her health and strength, and she remains a pretty mother by having avoided discomfort and suffering which more often than otherwise accompanies such an occasion when nature is unaided. Every nerve, muscle and tendon is thoroughly lubricated. Discomfort during the period is counteracted, and the skin, after the crisis, is left smooth and natural.

Write to the Bradford Regulator Company, Dept. B, Lamar Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for their Motherhood Book, and obtain a bottle of Mother's Friend from the drug store today without fail.

This machine is the last word in scientific dry cleaning. The big fans whirling at terrific speed draw the hot air through the clothing, removing the dirt from the cloth without causing the slightest damage to the fabrics. This is just one of the interesting machines we have recently installed in our plant.

LUCKY LITTLE YEOMAN

Miss Betty Fisher, yeoman (F), second class, in the navy, is now a millionaire twice over. She has been informed that her uncle, an Oklahoma oil producer, has left her his whole fortune, which consists of properties worth over $2,000,000. The very pretty yeoman intends to stay in the navy until placed on inactive duty. She has already had a year's service. Two years ago she "roughed it" in Oklahoma with her uncle, John P. McMahon, a bachelor who ran away from home soon after his parents brought him from Ireland. As a result of that visit while he was staking out a new claim, Miss Fisher is today his sole heir. Her home is in New York city.

Made Sawdust Valuable.

Not many years ago the sawdust that accumulated each spring about the local mills was a nuisance to the mill-owners. It was in the way. Some of it was dumped into the streams and fish were exterminated, and some was given away to anyone who would make use of it. And about the only use that could be made of the sawdust was that of packing for ice in the ice-houses.

The expansion of dairy farming called for more ice, and more ice called for more sawdust. The demand notified the mill-owners that the by-product of their mills, which they had been giving away and throwing away, had a commercial value. Sawdust is now sold by the load.

NEW WHEAT BLIGHT SOURCE OF ALARM

Jackson County Farmers Watching

For First Appearance of "Australian Take All."

DISEASE DEADLY TO GRAIN

Agricultural Experts Advise That Drastic Steps Be Taken As Soon as the Blight is Seen.

Jackson county farmers are carefully watching their wheat fields for the first appearance of "Australian take all," the new disease which is killing many fields in the central west. The blight has not appeared in Jackson county, so far as known, but is reported in surrounding counties. A. E. Murphy, county agent has urged the farmers to report to him immediately if the disease appears in any field.

The department of agriculture at Purdue University has issued the following bulletin relative to the new disease:

In the field the disease so far as found up to this time appears in more or less circular patches varying in size from 5 to 50 feet in diameter. These are conspicuous because of the marked stunting of the plants which are often only a few inches high when healthy plants are knee high. In heavily infected fields most of the plants are stunted or dead, with only an occasional normal plant, giving the field a very ragged appearance. The diseased plants are characterized by a dark brown discoloration and soft rotting of the leaf sheaths. As the disease progresses this rotting penetrates to the stem and finally causes the latter to rot off at the crown. Such plants tend to send out more shoots. This results in a thick rosette of short shoots. The diseased plants usually also have a darker green color than the healthy ones. Many plants in diseased areas are killed and the remaining diseased plants seldom head.

Up to date the disease has been found in Illinois and Indiana. In Illinois about 700 acres of wheat out of 4000 acres which had been surveyed around Granite City have the disease. The disease is so severe in that locality that many fields are wiped out by it. In Indiana "take-all" has been located in LaPorte, Porter, Jasper and Tippecanoe counties. In Tippecanoe and Jasper counties the trouble has so far been found in but a few fields. LaPorte and Porter counties report it rather mildly distributed.

From dates at hand at the present time concerning this disease the following recommendations are made:

1. Fields which are heavily or generally infected should be plowed up at once and planted to corn or soy-beans.
2. Where the disease is restricted to a few small spots in the field these should be cut over a week or ten days before harvest with a scythe and after the cut wheat is dry burn over the area, if this can be done without danger to the standing grain. Otherwise the infected areas and the wheat for a rod or more surrounding should be left uncut at harvest and burned over as soon as possible afterward. Do not allow stock in the field until

3. Since the straw from infected fields is a good carrier of the disease, such straw should not be spread or allowed to reach the manure heap.

4. The grain from infected fields should not be used for seed nor so disposed of that it may become mixed with other wheat for seed purposes.

5. All fields having the disease should be put into grass, alfalfa or other legumes as soon as possible and left for about four years.

6. Do not plant wheat, rye, barley or oats upon infected soil. Corn, alfalfa, clover, soybeans and pasture grass can probably be grown.

7. It will aid greatly in combating this disease if you will report any suspected occurrence in your locality. We will endeavor to send men to localities where the disease is reported and any cooperation which you may be able to furnish them will greatly aid in this work.

Arrangements are being made to determine as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible the extent of the distribution and the severity of this disease in Indiana. Intensive studies are being pushed to obtain all possible information about this new and dangerous trouble in the shortest possible time. The foregoing recommendations represent the results of the study already made and the best judgment of our own pathologists and of the federal department as to the immediate steps to take.

Two Serious Wheat Diseases Discovered in Illinois.

Washington, D. C., May 19—Two serious diseases of wheat hitherto unknown in this country recently have been discovered in Madison County, Illinois, according to the United States Department of Agriculture in a statement issued today. The first is a disease apparently identical with the "take-all" or "white-heads" known in many foreign countries. Take-all has caused serious losses in the wheat fields of Australia, and has been reported as a pest of wheat, oats, barley, rye, rice, and certain wild grasses in Europe. The second disease is flag smut of wheat (Urocystis tritici) which also is a serious disease of wheat in Australia, and is known in India and Japan. Neither pest, however, has ever been reported to cause losses comparable to those resulting from the great epidemics of black stem rust in this country.

Although these diseases may cause heavy losses to individual farmers, the total area likely to be affected, before eradication or control measures are established, probably will not be large, the Department says. The losses in the total area affected this year will have no appreciable effect upon the total production of this year's wheat crop.

The presence of these diseases discovered through a report from the county agent of Madison County, Illinois, stating that wheat was being seriously injured by some disease.

An investigation was made promptly by representatives of the Illinois Agriculture Department. The damage in the fields attacked was found to vary from a fraction of one per cent. to as much as 90 per cent. In some fields the damage was so great that the farmers were plowing up the wheat and preparing to plant corn.

Specimens of the diseased wheat plants have been examined and found affected with the disease, showing all the symptoms of take-all in its early stages, as described in Australia. On the second visit to Madison County the Department representative found the flag smut of wheat in the same fields injured by take-all. Finding these two Australian diseases in the same fields strongly indicates that they have been introduced on wheat shipped into this country from Australia. These diseases are carried on seed grain. A thorough investigation is being made by the Office of Cereal Investigations of the Department to determine the source of all seed wheat used on the infested farms. A nation-wide survey is now in progress to find if either or both of these two diseases have been introduced anywhere else in the United States.

Their serious effects under Australian conditions are now well known. There is every reason to believe that they will find conditions in this country favorable to their spread. All growers of wheat and other small grains should be interested in helping their State experiment stations and the United States Department of Agriculture to find these diseases if they have been introduced, and to keep them from spreading.

There should be little difficulty in recognizing flag smut, as it differs radically from the other grain smuts. Unlike the others, it attacks the upper leaves, particularly the top one, which is commonly called the flag leaf. The name of the disease comes from this characteristic. The flag leaf always shows long, smut spore stripes and frequently is contorted or twisted into a spiral. Occasionally flag smut attacks the stems as well as the upper leaves. In this respect it resembles the stem smut of rye but differs from it in that all of the culms instead of one out of several are attacked. Affected plants do not produce heads.

The layman may have some difficulty in distinguishing the take-all disease from any other condition that causes the plants to turn yellow in patches over the field. Take-all appears in round or irregular patches, within which all of the plants are destroyed. That habit gave rise to the

Another Holstein Cow Approaches the 50-Lb. Mark.

Pietertje Fayne Pohanna 199009, a 6-year-old daughter of Segis Fayne Johanna (whose claim to being the only 50-lb cow in the world has just been challenged by a Canadian Holstein, which is credited with over 51 lbs. butter in one week) has recently completed a 7-day butter record of over 48 lbs, thus exceeding the record made by her sister, Segis Hengerveld Fayne Johanna (47.34 lbs.) and completing a trio of famous members of one Holstein family. Pietertje Fayne Johanna's record surpasses those made by either her dam or her sister, at similar ages.

Pietertje Fayne Johanna freshened at the age of 6 years, 1 month, 23 days, and was officially reported as having produced 724.4 lbs. milk containing 37.748 lbs. fat in seven consecutive days, with the test still in progress. Later reports credit her with 736.2 lbs. milk, containing fat equal to 48.17 lbs. butter. A comparison of the records made by Segis Fayne Johanna and Segis Hengerveld Fayne Johanna, in their 6-year-old form shows that the former's 7 day record is 35.296 lbs. butter, 572.6 lbs. milk while the latter made her best 7-day record at that age.

Pietertje Fayne Johanna, like her dam, has other good records to her credit. At 1y. 9m. of age she produced 304.9 lbs. milk, 13.97 lbs. butter in an official 7-day test, and her subsequent tests resulted as follows: At 2 years, 11 months, 483.4 lbs. milk, 27.25 lbs. butter; 4 years, 1 month, 510 lbs. milk, 34.54 lbs. butter; 5 years, 640.1 lbs. milk, 32.26 lbs. butter; 6 years, 1 month, 736.2 lbs. milk, 48.17 lbs. butter. The average for her last four tests in 7-day work is 38.50 lbs. butter, which compared with Segis Fayne Johanna's four records up to the age of 7 years (32.78 lbs.), brings the thought to one's mind that (barring accidents) Pietertje Fayne Johanna will eventually become the world's champion 7-day butter cow.

name of take-all. In the infected patches the plants are first yellow, later becoming brown and dead. Diseased plants are but weakly rooted to the ground and the roots foot of the stems become rotten. From this comes another name, foot-rot, by which the disease is sometimes known. Affected plants may survive the early or seedling attack and produce heads, but they never fill out, and are a dead white color. This gives rise to a third name of the disease, white-head.

The Department of Agriculture has been for some time apprehensive that these two diseases would be introduced into the United States. Several weeks ago a hearing was held with a view to prohibiting the importation of seed wheat from Australia, Japan, India and practically the whole of Europe. Quarantine regulations were being prepared some time before the discovery of the diseases in Illinois.

THIN!

By Division of Horticulture.

Do not allow your plants to grow too large before thinning them. Nearly all home gardeners plant more seed than necessary, in order to get a full stand of plants. As soon as these are large enough to handle easily all excess plants should be pulled out, leaving enough space between each plant remaining for the vegetables to develop properly. If this practice is not followed, not only do the crowded conditions cause tall, spindly, unhealthy growth, but the excess plants act as weeds, using up the plant food and moisture that should be available for the crop.

The distances that plants should stand in the row in order to have enough room for proper growth varies with the different crops and with the different varieties of each vegetable. In general plants of Bush means should be 3 or 4 inches apart. Beets, Carrots and Salsify, 2 to 4 inches. Endive, 8 to 12 inches. Kale, 18 to 20 inches. Kohi Rabi, 4 to 6 inches. Leaf Lettuce, 6 to 8 inches. Parsley, 3 to 6 inches. Parsnips, 3 to 4 inches. Radish, 1 inch. Spinach, 3 to 4 inches, and Turnips, 3 to 4 inches.

Leaf Lettuce is generally thinned several times. The first thinning is not done until the plants are of such size that a few removed here and there may be used as salad and will give room for those remaining to grow larger. Later a second and third thinning should take place, again giving room for further growth. By this method a great deal larger crop may be obtained from a limited space than if the small plants were given maximum distance at the first thinning.

Radishes and Carrots are ordinarily not thinned until some are large enough to use, unless of course, the seed has been sown exceptionally thick. Thinning of Spinach too, is delayed until the small plants removed are large enough to use as "greens."

Care Needed in Building New Homes

A summary of the various causes of fire, as given by state fire marshals of different states, shows that fire attributable to chimneys annually amount to from 10 to 26 per cent of the total number, while in winter the percentage has reached as high as 50. This is significant when it is realized that most of these fires result from carelessness and could be avoided by proper attention.

In cities and towns with proper fire protection many fires are arrested without serious loss. It is evident, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, that in rural districts, where there are no organized fire fighting agencies, and where a fire usually results in a total loss, builders should give more attention to making the construction of all new chimneys as nearly fire-proof as possible.

With the establishment of peace, home building, which during the war was practically at a standstill, probably will receive a considerable stimulus. With the increased volume of work, building will be speeded up to the limit, and the fact that carelessness is bound to creep in should not be forgotten. This should be especially guarded against in fire hazards in chimney construction.

It is well known that the ordinary brick-and-mortar chimney as usually constructed is a source of danger. The constant heat from fire in time causes the mortar to become dry, so that it falls out of place, leaving holes in the chimney. Such a condition usually goes unnoticed and is a constant source of danger from fire.

In constructing chimneys in buildings made of combustible material, the chimney should be built straight up from the ground and not placed on a bracket, as is often the case, and should extend 2 feet or more above the peak when the chimney is in the center of the roof and 3 feet or more above the surface when on a flat or slanted roof. For proper draft, the minimum-sized opening for the flue should not be less than 64 square inches, while the walls should be at least 8 inches thick. At the base of each flue a clean-out door should be provided, if possible.

Whatever the material used in construction, it should be of good quality and laid in cement. Flue holes should never be filled with any inflammable material, but should be covered over in a secure manner with a metal flue stop.

The joists used to support the floors through which the chimney passes should not have their ends supported in the brick, as the chimney may settle, leaving at these points cracks through which fire may creep to the joists; furthermore, no other woodwork should come in contact with the chimney.

To obviate the fire hazard in brick chimneys it is suggested that some good flue lining be used in their construction. This lining may be either fire clay or terra-cotta tile, and no difficulty will be experienced in its use. If fire clay is used instead of terra-cotta tile, the results will be similar if the size of the flue is not thereby cut down. The lining serves as a fire preventive, and in the case of terra-cotta tile gives a flue of uniform dimensions. The ordinary brick chimney will not do this. With lining the flue presents a smooth surface, which leaves no place for soot to gather, thus eliminating to a great extent the possibility of chimney fires. The cost of such a lining for an ordinary two-story residence would be nominal, and the lining should prove a cheap and effective means of fire protection.

It is possible to use fire brick in place of the fire clay or terra-cotta tile, with the same result, but at greater cost. Fire brick are almost universally used in the construction of fireplaces for lining the fire-back, sides, throat, and walls of the ash pit.

Where the home is already equipped with the ordinary unlined brick chimney a close inspection should be given at short intervals to insure safety. If any breaks or cracks appear they should be immediately repaired. It would also be well occasionally to clean the chimney, thus removing soot. This may be done with a wire or rope to which is fastened any object suitable for the purpose. A one-quarter-inch rope and a pair of old automobile tire chains used for this purpose did the work satisfactorily. United States Department of Agriculture.

Don't Neglect Your Rhubarb Plants

By Division of Horticulture

Do not fail to take good care of your rhubarb plants all season, as well as in the spring when you are making use of the tender stems for sauces and pies, says A. E. Murphy. After the first few cuttings of rhubarb stems, many gardeners neglect this crop until the following spring.

Stir the earth around the plants at least once a week in order that healthy growth may store plenty of plant food in the roots to produce a large supply of tender stems next year.

Keep the seed stalks broken out all summer. If these are allowed to develop the plant food will go to seed production rather than into the roots where it is desired.

In the fall if your rhubarb plants are old and losing their vigor, dig them up and divide by cutting through the crown with a sharp spade, then plant them again with the crowns just above the surface.

Rhubarb needs plenty of plant food for good results, and the best material to use is barnyard manure. Heap the manure around the plants in the fall and dig it in when spring comes. Or an occasional application through the summer will cause vigorous growth of the plants, consequently the roots will have plenty of food manufactured for and stored in them to produce stalks early the following spring.

If desired, a few rhubarb roots may be dug in late fall, allowed to freeze, then bedded in moist sand or coal ashes in the cellar. If kept moist, tender pink stems will be produced that are delicious in sauces or pies. No fertilization or soil is needed, merely moisture must be supplied since the plant food that produces the stems has been stored in the roots during the summer's growth. Roots at least four or five years old are best for forcing in the cellar as just explained.

INDIANA SOLDIERS TO AID S. A. DRIVE

of 14th Division, Directs State Campaign.

Home People Ready to Back Up Salvation Army Workers in Gratitude for Services to Boys in the Trenches.

Indianapolis, May 15.—Indiana is rapidly getting set for the Salvation Army National Home Service Fund Campaign May 19 to 26. Col. Solon J. Carter, Indiana State Chairman, has already confirmed the appointment of directors of the drive in a majority of counties in the state and in others organization is in process.

Col. Carter is the youngest officer of that rank in the American Army, according to the best information obtainable here. His promotion came in July, 1918, when he was twenty-nine years old. Col. Carter was Major of the 150th Field Artillery when that unit left Indianapolis in September, 1917. April 28th, 1918, he was advanced to Lieutenant-Colonel of the Regiment. Following his appointment as Colonel he was transferred to the 42nd Field Artillery of the 14th Division, located at Camp Custer, and he had prepared that unit for overseas service when the Armistice was signed.

Col. Carter was decorated with the Croix de Guerre and palm for his gallant conduct on the Champagne front in the attack July 15th, when he commanded an artillery detachment which included six French batteries stationed in front of the town of Suippes. For seventy-six hours the fiercest possible fighting was endured.

Col. Carter has been prominent in welding together the Indiana organization of World War Veterans and the National Organization of Soldiers, Sailors and Marines, which recently convened in St. Louis. He has accepted the State Chairmanship in the Salvation drive because he has known personally the service which Salvation Army workers gave to the country's fighting men on the battlefield where they shared with the men in khaki all of the dangers.

Practically all of the counties in the state are organized for the campaign, and chairmen and other executives have been named. Each county is organized as a working unit and will conduct its own drive, under the direction of the local committee. Organization meetings are now being held in all parts of the state and reports indicate unusual interest. It is stated by county chairmen that no difficulty is anticipated in raising the quotas asked for. The interest that is being taken by the soldiers is proving a determining factor in the campaign, and the home people are ready to back up their boys—who went to the front—by assisting the Salvation Army workers who meant so much to the men while they were in the trenches. Thousands of letters from Indiana soldiers came back from "over there" that told of their gratitude to the Salvation Army, and of their deep obligation and now that the opportunity has come to express appreciation in substantial form, the parents and friends of these boys are ready to do their part.

President Wilson cabled a personal endorsement to Commander Miss E. Booth.

The campaign is attracting widespread attention from returned service men, and hundreds are volunteering their aid to assist in putting over the drive. In fact, one of the remarkable features is the general interest manifested by prominent individuals of all faiths and walks in life, as well as organized bodies. Among the latter are the various lodges of Elks throughout the state, all of which are co-operating. Cardinal Gibbons is among the high churchmen who have endorsed the movement.

There are forty corps and outposts of the Salvation Army in Indiana. Heretofore the money has been raised by small collections made by individual members of the army, but no longer will the Salvation Army girls go about with their tambourines collecting pennies. This method has been a bugbear to members and public alike. The new way will permit the workers, who have devoted more than their time to collections, to give all their time in the future to the work for which they have been trained.

A war worker, who served in the hospitals in France throughout the war, said: "Too much praise cannot be given the Salvation Army workers for their faithful, devoted service. They went right up to the trenches and many a soldier has told me that when the service men in the trenches became desperate they always found a Salvation Army worker at hand to help them bear their sufferings and cheer them up. Many a soldier who has been in the trenches without relief was sought out by a Salvation Army man or woman and given a cup of hot coffee and food at the very moment that it seemed as if nature could bear no more. That's why all the soldiers love the Army and why they are solidly behind the drive."

ERADICATE LICE ON CATTLE

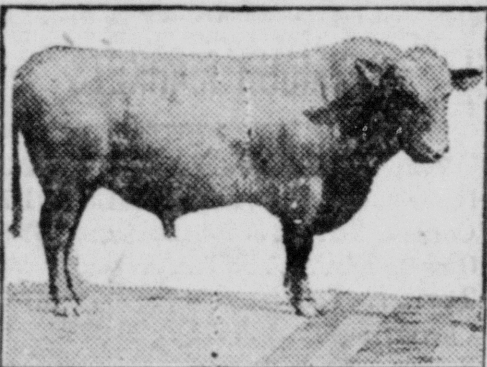

Plan Given to Destroy This Pest Which Causes Injury and Retards Growth of Stock.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Cattle lice are injurious to all classes of cattle, but the greatest losses occur in young stock and poorly nourished old animals. Losses are caused by irritation, digestive disturbances, arrested growth, low vitality, and increased death rate.

Ordinarily lice on cattle are not observed until they become so numerous that they cause unmistakable signs of annoyance. Usually the animals whose lousy condition first attract attention are the poor, weak, unthrifty members of the herd, and frequently the owner thinks they are lousy because they are unthrifty, whereas the unthrifty condition may be caused by the lice.

Three kinds of lice are commonly found on cattle, and all three species may be present at the same time, but the same method of treatment may be used for any of them. When they make their appearance on the cattle during the fall or winter they usually spread rapidly until every animal is infested. When a herd is grossly infested it is not uncommon to see some animals with large areas of skin partly denuded of hair, and limited areas bruised and raw from rubbing against posts and other objects. condition will not thrive or gain weight normally, and during winter often remain stunted until the old coat of hair is shed in the spring, at which time most of the lice disappear. Hand applications, spraying, and dipping with insecticides are the methods which the bulletin recommends as remedies. In southern latitudes where the winters are mild cattle may be dipped during the winter months without injury from cold weather, but in the northern sections winters are usually too cold for dipping or spraying. All animals in the herd should be treated regardless of the number showing infestation, and the treatment should be repeated in 15 to 16 days.

Hand applications are practical only when a few animals are to be treated, but are specially valuable in holding the parasites in check during weather too cold for dipping or spraying. Some dusting powders obtainable on the market are good when this method is used. The following home-made liquid remedies are also effective: Equal parts cottonseed oil and kerosene, or kerosene and lard mixed in the proportion of one-half pint kerosene to one pound of lard or crude petroleum. Apply these remedies with a brush or cloth, covering the entire body, being particularly careful about the head and ears. For spraying and dipping arsenical dips, coal-tar creosote dips, and nicotine solutions are recommended. They may be applied with a hand sprayer, but the most effective method is to provide a dipping vat and completely dip the cattle two or, in some cases, three times.

A THRILLING TALE OF PIRATES BOLD

"Wolves of the Sea"

By RANDALL PARRISH

Author of "Beyond the Frontier,"
"The Red Mist," "The Devil's Own,"
"Bob Hampton of Placer,"
"Keith of the Border," "Mollie McDonald," etc.

Who is that bold, bad man? His cruel countenance and ready pistol augur ill for those unfortunates who come within his power.

Black Sanchez! That's who it is! Leader of the most notorious pirate craft that ever roved the Spanish main.

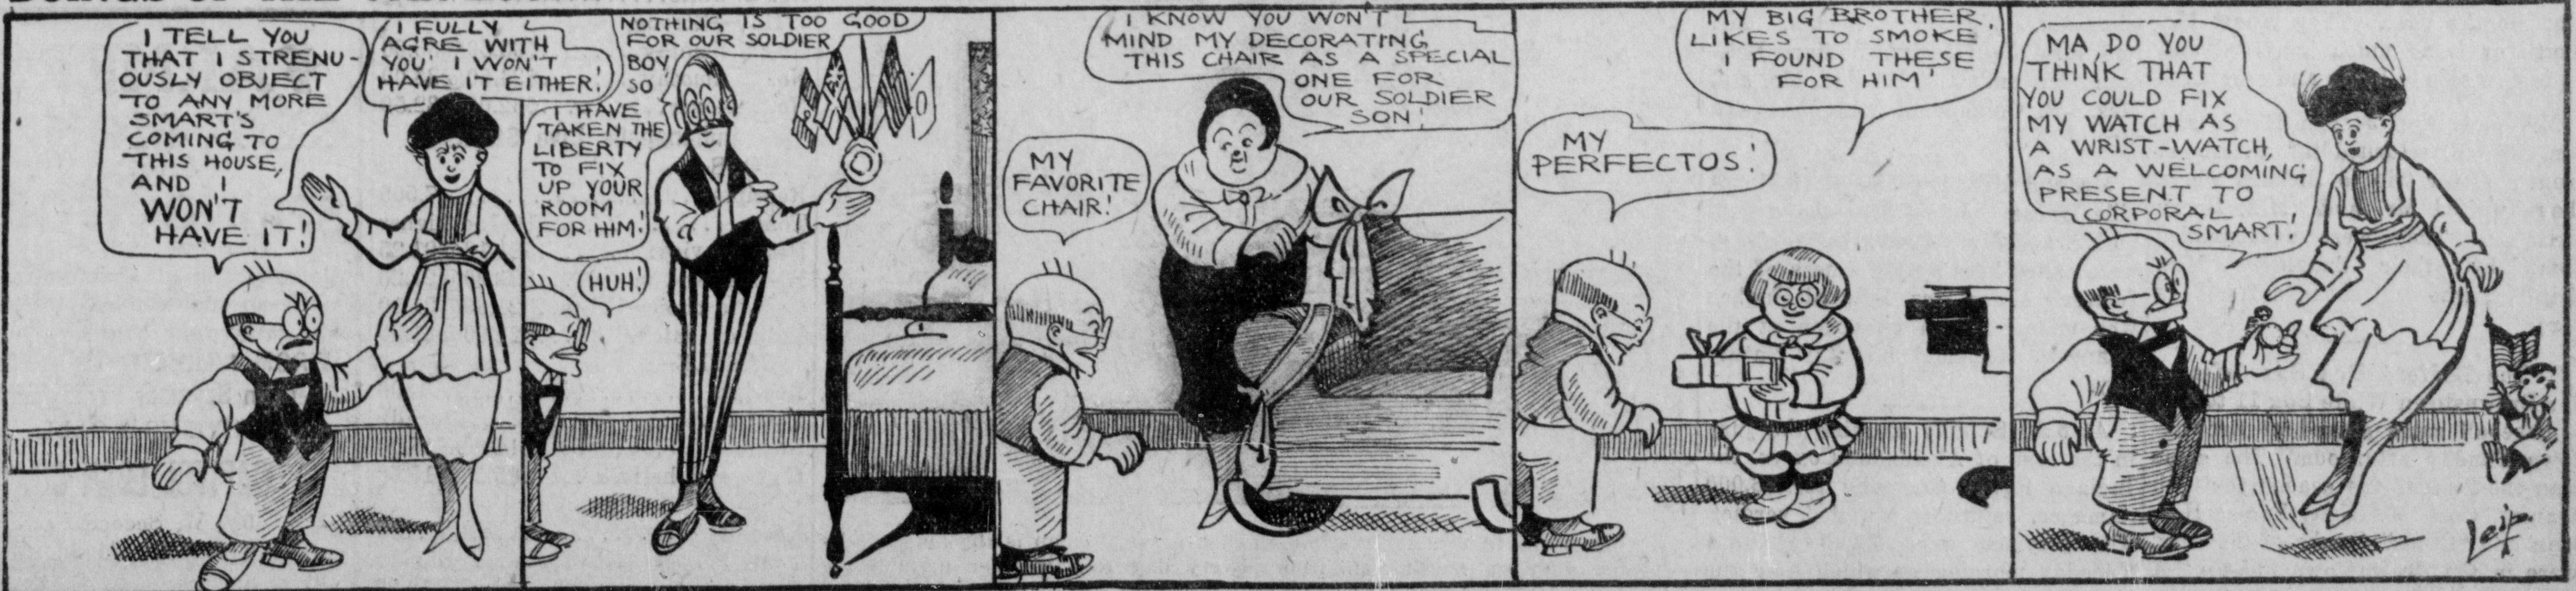

Let Randall Parrish—who as a story-teller easily ranks with the best—take you by the hand and go with him back to the days when Sanchez and his band of cut-throat buccaneers sailed the seas in quest of treasure.

Geoffrey Carlyle of Glasgow, Scotland, deported to the colonies for alleged complicity in a plot against his majesty's government, falls into the hands of this pirate crew and unwillingly participates in their depredations. Then follow adventures by the score. There is a treasure chest, a dark mystery aboard a derelict plague ship, and the constant bristling dangers of bloody fights, mutiny, storms and shipwreck. In the midst of all this there is beautiful Dorothy Fairfax, and, of course, eventually the hero wins freedom, fortune and happiness for himself and her.

Guardian of the Royal Mint.

An important guardian of the royal mint in London, where golden pounds and silver coins are made, is a big, brown-coated terrier. He was taken to the mint as a puppy, and was well trained to his work. His duties do not begin until evening. Then he turns out with the guard and remains on patrol throughout the night. He goes everywhere—into the big places where the officer on duty accompanies him; into the little places capable of hiding someone, where a policeman could not enter. He knows his time and his beats, and after a certain hour he will not permit the presence of anyone in the mint who is not in policeman's uniform.
